

NASREPORT

Our North American shale play activity report - Unique insights summarized monthly for you

Key questions

What are the current activity levels for the key North American shale oil and gas plays? How have spending and production of various shale-focused companies developed? Where is production for North American shale oil and gas heading over the next few years? Find answers in our North American Shale Report (NASReport), a comprehensive report that provides you with up-to-date insight into North American shale.

NASReport enables you to

- Analyze history and forecast of NA shale gas and tight oil production, investments and spending
- Evaluate historical company performance and forecast
- Compare production, completion and well productivity
- Identify targets for acquisitions

Key features

- Productivity metrics indicators
- Trends in the permitting, rig count by play and numbers of spudded vs. completed wells
- The latest development of oil and gas plays
- Short-term month-by-month forecast for NA shale gas and tight oil production
- Medium-term production and spending forecast for the next few years

Ideal for

- E&P companies
- Financial market: Investors, investment banking, equity research and M&A
- Oilfield service companies
- Consulting and advisory firms
- Research institutions

220,000+
shale wells

Updated
monthly

Well configuration
details

Historical data back to 2000

700+
assets

Production
forecasts

